Aristotle is the founder of Curcio Mirzaian Sirot LLC. Aristotle focuses his practice on the areas of corporate and business law, real estate law, banking law, and e-commerce.

Aristotle has extensive experience in advising small, medium and large companies in connection with the negotiation and implementation of a broad range of corporate and commercial matters, including start-up ventures, both U.S. and international mergers, acquisitions and reorganizations, financing (conventional and SBA lending), franchise agreements, licensing agreements, buy-sell agreements, restrictive covenants, employment matters and Web site terms of use agreements and privacy policies.

Aristotle has also worked closely with individuals and developers in all aspects of residential and commercial real estate transactions, representing property owners, landlords, tenants, institutional lenders, borrowers, sellers and purchasers in connection with acquisitions, dispositions, leases, financing, and other real property related transactions.

Moreover, Aristotle has counseled clients on sophisticated estate planning opportunities and intergenerational planning through the use of corporate restructuring of family owned business, formation of Family Limited Partnerships and financing through the use of private annuities and self-canceling installment notes.

He is admitted to practice in New Jersey, New York and California and is a member of the New Jersey State Bar Association's Computer and Internet Law Committee.
